Boston Foundation for Sight
Annual Report
2010

Dear Boston Foundation for Sight Community,

When I think about the many communities of which I am a part, I am always most thankful to be a part of this wonderful one. I wanted to take this opportunity to thank you for all that you do for the Boston Foundation for Sight.

The last year has seen a transition to new leadership, achieved with the ongoing counsel and participation of long-time advisors and stakeholders. Gary Gut, our CEO, joined the organization and set a strategic path that stresses intelligent growth without sacrificing our core goals and mission. In addition, the Board of Directors elected me to succeed Enid Starr as chair. Enid remains on the Board, and I continue to rely on her invaluable guidance, as well as that of many others such as Alan Strassman, Robert Schaeberle and Harry Daniels, who have been involved with BFS far longer than I. These smooth transitions are a tribute to the Board and to BFS founder, Dr. Perry Rosenthal, without whom many more would suffer significantly from vision problems.

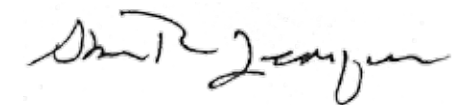

I am also a patient, and our mission to improve the quality of life for patients and families worldwide by transforming the understanding, treatment and care of complex corneal disease is very important to me personally. We have transformed the standard of care through the PROSE treatment model (prosthetic replacement of the ocular surface ecosystem) both at our facility in Needham, Massachusetts and at a growing number of PROSE partner clinics – world-class academic medical centers in the United States and specialty clinics abroad.

BFS does not turn patients away due to an inability to pay. These patients make up almost 20% of our volume. Ongoing research is a cost that must be funded to find new and better ways to treat corneal disease sufferers. The insurance industry influences reimbursement rates for this life-changing and priceless treatment. An independent peer reviewed journal article estimates that our typical treatment cost exceeds the price we charge by almost $1,500. Those who know me have heard me rail about “medical economics” which I often call the world’s greatest oxymoron.

That is why YOU are so important. Grateful patients, family and friends support more than 25% of our operating costs. Without you, there would be no Boston Foundation for Sight. We are all aware of what the global economic slowdown has done to our wallets, but please continue to think well of us as you make your philanthropic plans and consider the life-changing difference you will make to those whom we treat.

As 2011 approaches, the future is bright. We’re moving forward towards our goal to ensure that everyone who can benefit from our treatment gets our help.

Thank you for all that you do for BFS, now and in the future.

Shaun R. Levesque
Chairman of the Board of Directors

Dear Boston Foundation for Sight Community,

I write to you with a tremendous respect for what BFS has already achieved and great excitement about what lies before us.

Strength from a Solid Foundation

The pioneering work of our founder, Perry Rosenthal, M.D., grew out of the merger of the worlds of ophthalmology and of contact lenses, in which he played a leading role as an innovator and a clinician. In 1994, Dr. Rosenthal founded the Boston Foundation for Sight, a 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization where innovative technology and patient-centered medical care have evolved together. Today the PROSE (prosthetic replacement of the ocular surface ecosystem) treatment model successfully treats complex corneal disease with an integrated team of optometrists, cornea specialists, laboratory technicians and clinic technicians at our clinic in Needham, Massachusetts and eight other locations in the U.S. and abroad. Together, we change lives.

The Need

The need for PROSE treatment is great. Over 400,000 complex corneal disease sufferers in the U.S. and countless more in other countries could benefit. A recent BFS survey of over 1,000 corneal disease sufferers clearly demonstrated the crucial role we can play in patient, public and professional education, patient empowerment, treatment, clinical research and patient-centered care.

The Opportunity

BFS' impact on the lives of those suffering with corneal disease will be determined by our ability to reach those in need, educate the next generation of treatment providers, build a resilient patient community and ultimately shape the standard of eye health care.

We have a remarkable opportunity to bring new understanding and treatment innovation to a much wider base of the medical community. To that end, in late 2009 we committed to greatly increase the number of clinics in the U.S. The immediate challenge for our organization is to solidify our base and the progress we have made – while simultaneously building the infrastructure to support our growth in new directions.

2009 - A Year of Preparation

Highlights:

- A record number of 5,400 patient visits to BFS and our PROSE partners, a 19% increase over 2008
- A record number of 36 peer-reviewed clinical publications and papers and invited talks
- Installation of an additional Nanoform lathe in our lab in Needham, MA, increasing our manufacturing capacity by 50%
- A new PROSE clinic opened at Doheny Eye Institute at the University of Southern California, our third U.S. partner
- Record revenues and contributions totaling $4.7 million, a 14% increase
- BFS net assets reached a record $3.6 million by end of 2009, a 10% increase
- Contributions reached an all-time high of $1.1 million, a 17% increase

Thank you for your support of BFS and our mission to improve the quality of life for patients and families worldwide by transforming the understanding, treatment and care of complex corneal disease. Our success depends on your continued support of the Foundation. On behalf of the entire staff at BFS, we are honored to continue our important work. Together can we restore sight and help our patients and their families reclaim lives.

Sincerely,

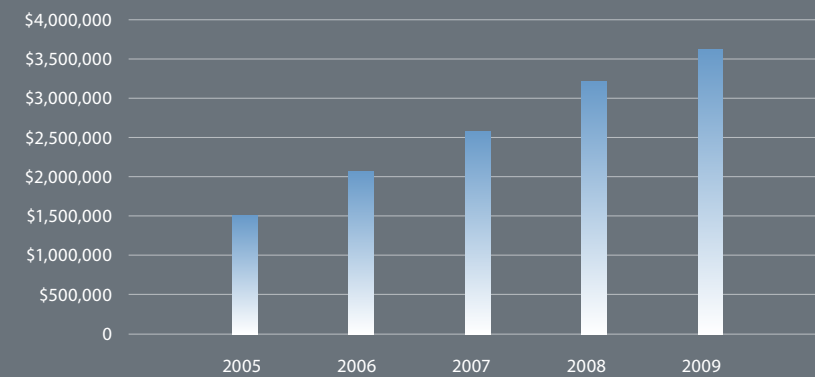

Gary F. Gut
